HERETIC LEGIONS

In 1099 the gates of Hell were opened

Jerusalem was the first to fall, reduced to a depraved pit where Hell and our mortal world bleed into one. From that damned abyss emerged the unending demon servants of Hell, who have raised their banner of war to declare openly their intent to corrupt Creation by force of arms. These Heretic Legions aim to topple the throne of the Tyrant-God, utterly ruin Him, and cast Him down from on high.

For eight hundred years they have besieged humanity's strongholds: Jerusalem, Alexandria, Constantinople, all toppled by the unrelenting tide of Hell. Today Rome, New Antioch, and the Iron Wall hold firm, but barely. The Heretic Legions devour more and more territory, for it is written that, with every furlong of land they take, the Tyrant-God will weaken as his believer's faith in Him is eroded, until the demons of Hell have dominion over all Creation.

This is the war to slay God

HERETIC NAVAL RAIDERS

"The blood-dimmed tide is loosed, and everywhere
The ceremony of innocence is drowned..."

- W.B. Yeats

A dense fog rolls onto gently lapping waves. Scores of dying fish float to the surface, and humanoid shapes rise from the water with barely a sound. That is, until they unleash the sudden barking of automatic weapons, the wet hacking of naval tools on flesh, the gurgled chanting of revelrous murder. Many are the coastal battlements, fishing villages and supply fleets that have met this savage end, for lurking in the depths of Creation's vast seas are one of the most insidious arms of Hell's armies, the Heretic Naval Raiders.

At the helm of these naval forces are Heretic Captains, the absolute masters of their accursed vessel, leading by both unholy ritual and obsessive marauding. To the heed of a distant call, the Abyssal Commandos follow raiders like remoras, rumoured but never seen, appearing where the enemy least expects it with their ruinous hull drills. In contrast to the unseen Abyssal Commandos, the Drowned Choristers are all-too-visible, floating eerily even when on land. From within their water-filled diving bells they crow a hellish song, a dead omen in hexatonic key that rattles the shackled mind of the Tyrant-God's servants.

In eternal service to their Captain, Heretic Raiders are the sadistic foot soldiers of the raiding parties. They strike at their quarry like repeat lightning flashes, using cruel boarding axes and rapid-fire submachine guns to make a ruin of their foes, before making off with plunder and prisoners in tow. When met with resistance, the hulking Anointed Heretic Raiders bring heavy weapons to bear, from full machine guns to melee weapons able to cleave a human in two. Perhaps most deadly of all, Sea Hags quietly hover over the whitecaps, launching infernal mines drawn from Stygian realms across No Man's Land to tear apart Faithful fortifications with a simple destructive gesture.

HERETIC NAVAL RAIDERS WARBAND RULES

The Heretic Naval Raiders are the vanguard forces of the Heretic Legions that specialise in shock attacks. Leveraging lightning-fast manoeuvrability and a number of infiltrators, Heretic Naval Raider Warbands excel at battlefield domination, quickly applying close-range pressure from all angles early in the game. The signature weapon of the Heretic Naval Raiders is the Submachine Gun, but their impeccable training and flexibility allows them to enact sublime violence with simple axes, clubs, and a plethora of gas grenades. Through these means, the Heretic Naval Raiders can reliably deliver a devastating volume of attacks with an accuracy that makes up for their smaller model count compared to some Warbands.

In exchange for their skilled and well resourced light infantry, the Heretic Naval Raiders have limited access to heavier infantry, and lack a big, powerhouse unit entirely. These lighter troops are more fragile, so it's best to avoid being hit at all, using your models' speed to dodge blasts and stay out of unfavourable melee match-ups. When the lines close and a melee breaks out, use the close combat skills of your Elites to hold the line and reposition to keep your opponents on their toes.

STRENGTHS

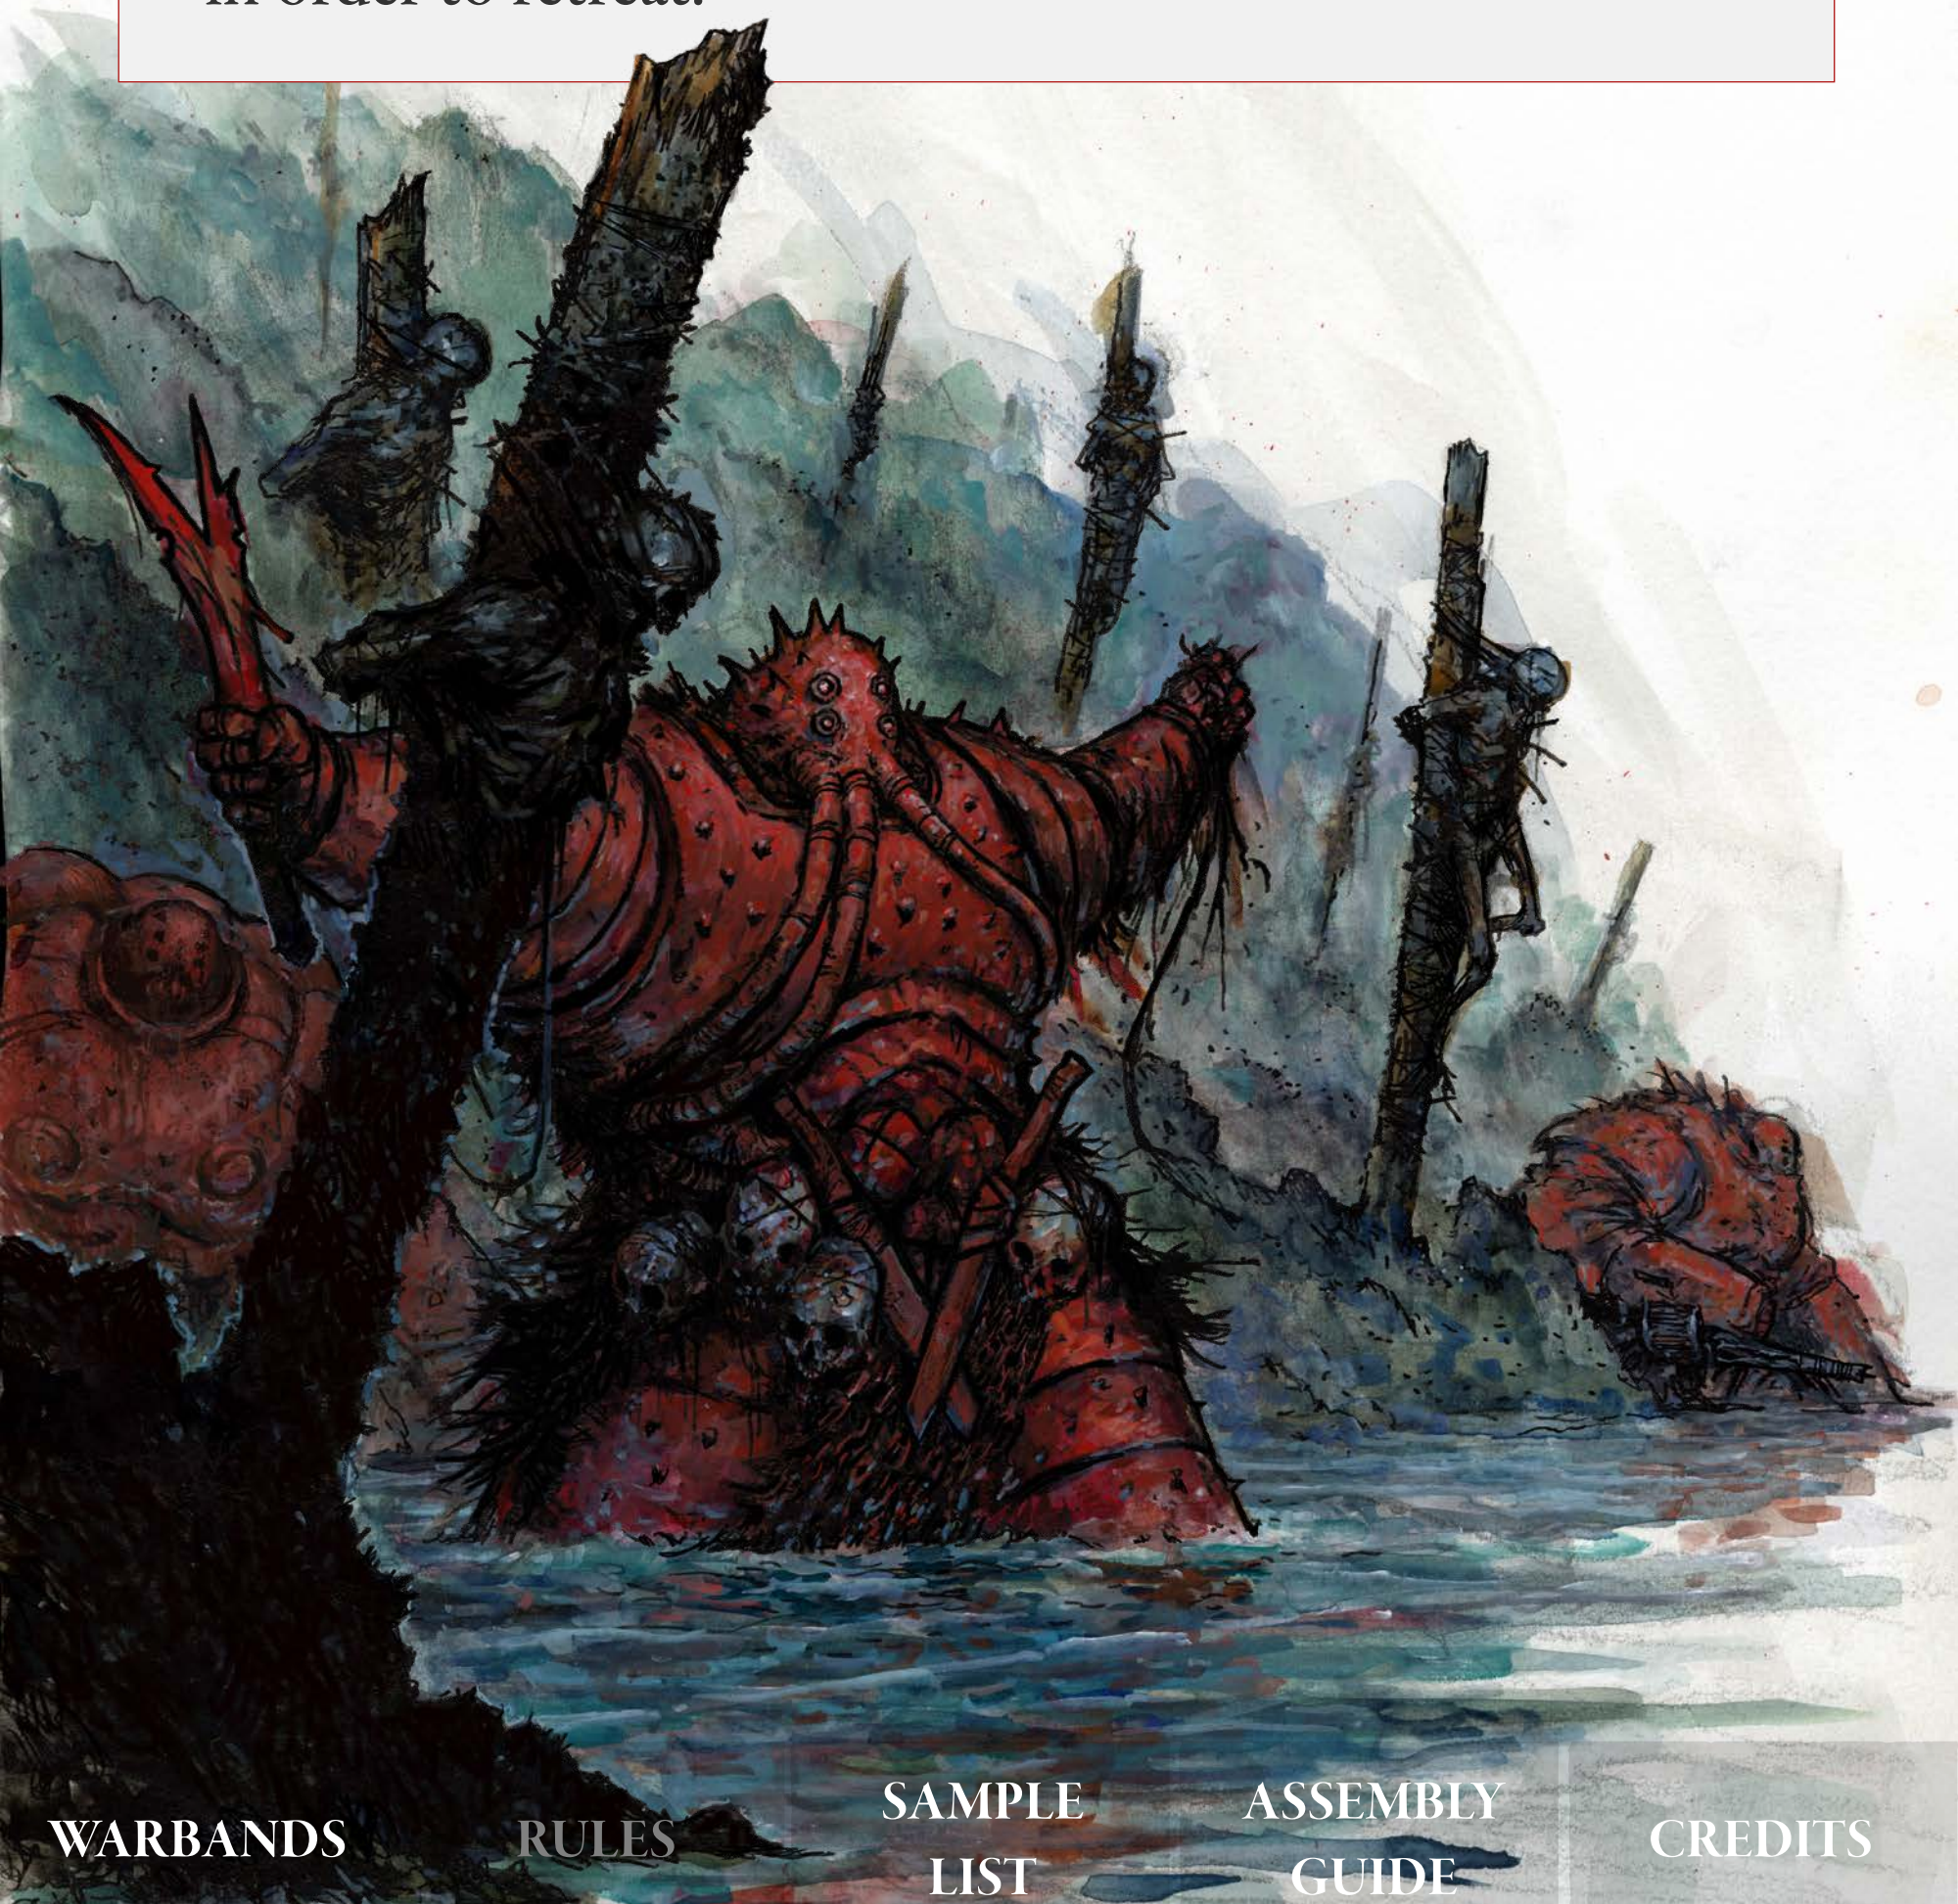

- Unholy Speed: A Heretic Naval Raiders Warband is fast. With every model getting +1 DICE to Dash ACTIONS, Heretic Naval Raiders can gain dominance over the battlefield pretty quickly, closing in on objectives and securing advantageous firing positions. When this is considered alongside the Naval Raiders' added emphasis on short-range firepower, the followers of the Tyrant-God can be falling dead before they even draw their swords.

- A Hail of Bullets: The Heretic Naval Raiders can freely purchase Submachine Guns – extremely flexible ranged weapons that allow multiple Ranged Attacks against multiple targets with each Shoot ACTION. Alongside the Machine Gun in the hands of an Anointed, No Man's Land can be an impenetrable storm of tainted ammunition that no enemy can march through.

- Elite Training: Heretic Naval Raiders are a ruthless and experienced force of murderers. The Heretic Captain and Anointed Heretic Raiders are equally lethal at range or melee, and Heretic Raiders can be upgraded to Heretic Raider Legionnaires, giving them +1 DICE to either their Ranged or Melee characteristics. This affords a Heretic Naval Raider Warband a huge amount of flexibility when facing the desperate followers of YHWH.

WEAKNESSES

- Low Model Count: Given the elite and expensive nature of the Heretic Naval Raiders, they can often find themselves outnumbered and out-activated by their opponents. If their enemies can use Line of Sight blocking terrain to their advantage, even the most trained Heretic Raider could end up surrounded and attacked from all angles.
- Unprotected: Many Heretic Naval Raiders would rather spend their ducats on firepower than armour. As such, if a resilient enemy survives the withering volleys of Heretic fire long enough to get up close, the Naval Raiders may need to consider sacrificing their position in order to retreat.

HERETIC NAVAL RAIDERS BATTLEKIT

The following unique pieces of Battlekit are only available to Heretic Naval Raiders. The rules for all other pieces of Battlekit can be found in the Battlekit section of the Trench Crusade Rulebook.

Blasphemous Staff | 2 ✳ | ELITE only

Crafted in mockery of the rod carried by the prophet Aaron, this evil staff unleashes searing hellfire, causing excruciating pain with the slightest touch.

Type	Range	Keywords
1-Handed	Melee	CRITICAL, FIRE

✳ Evil Power: Add +1 DICE to Success Rolls or Risky Success Rolls for a model with a Blasphemous Staff, apart from the Success Rolls for a Ranged or Melee Attack, or the Risky Success Roll to take a Dash ACTION.

Boarding Axe | 10 ⓜ

Raider boarding axes feature serrated blades to bite deep into hulls or rails. Runes of ruin and despair are etched into their hafts, and at their touch iron and steel flakes to rust.

Type	Range	Keywords
1-Handed	Melee	ARMOUR PIERCING, CRITICAL, RISKY

✳ Boarding: Add +1 DICE to Risky Success Rolls for friendly models with this special rule that are attempting to Climb a sheer surface.

Hull Drill | 20 | Abyssal Commando only

The hull drill is a favoured tool of the Abyssal Commandos. It is able to tear a hole in the bottom of a ship or through the throat of an armoured foe with equal ferocity.

Type	Range	Keywords
1-Handed	Melee	CRITICAL, HELD, IGNORE ARMOUR, RISKY

Sacrificial Blade | 23 | ELITE only, Limit: 2

Terrifying blades blessed by the hand of a greater devil, these knives are used in Heretic rituals to sacrifice captives to the dark powers of Hell. They simply need to touch their opponents to cause indescribable pain, and even the most minor wound often proves fatal from the agony alone. They are risky even to their wielders, as the merest scratch will wound friend and foe alike.

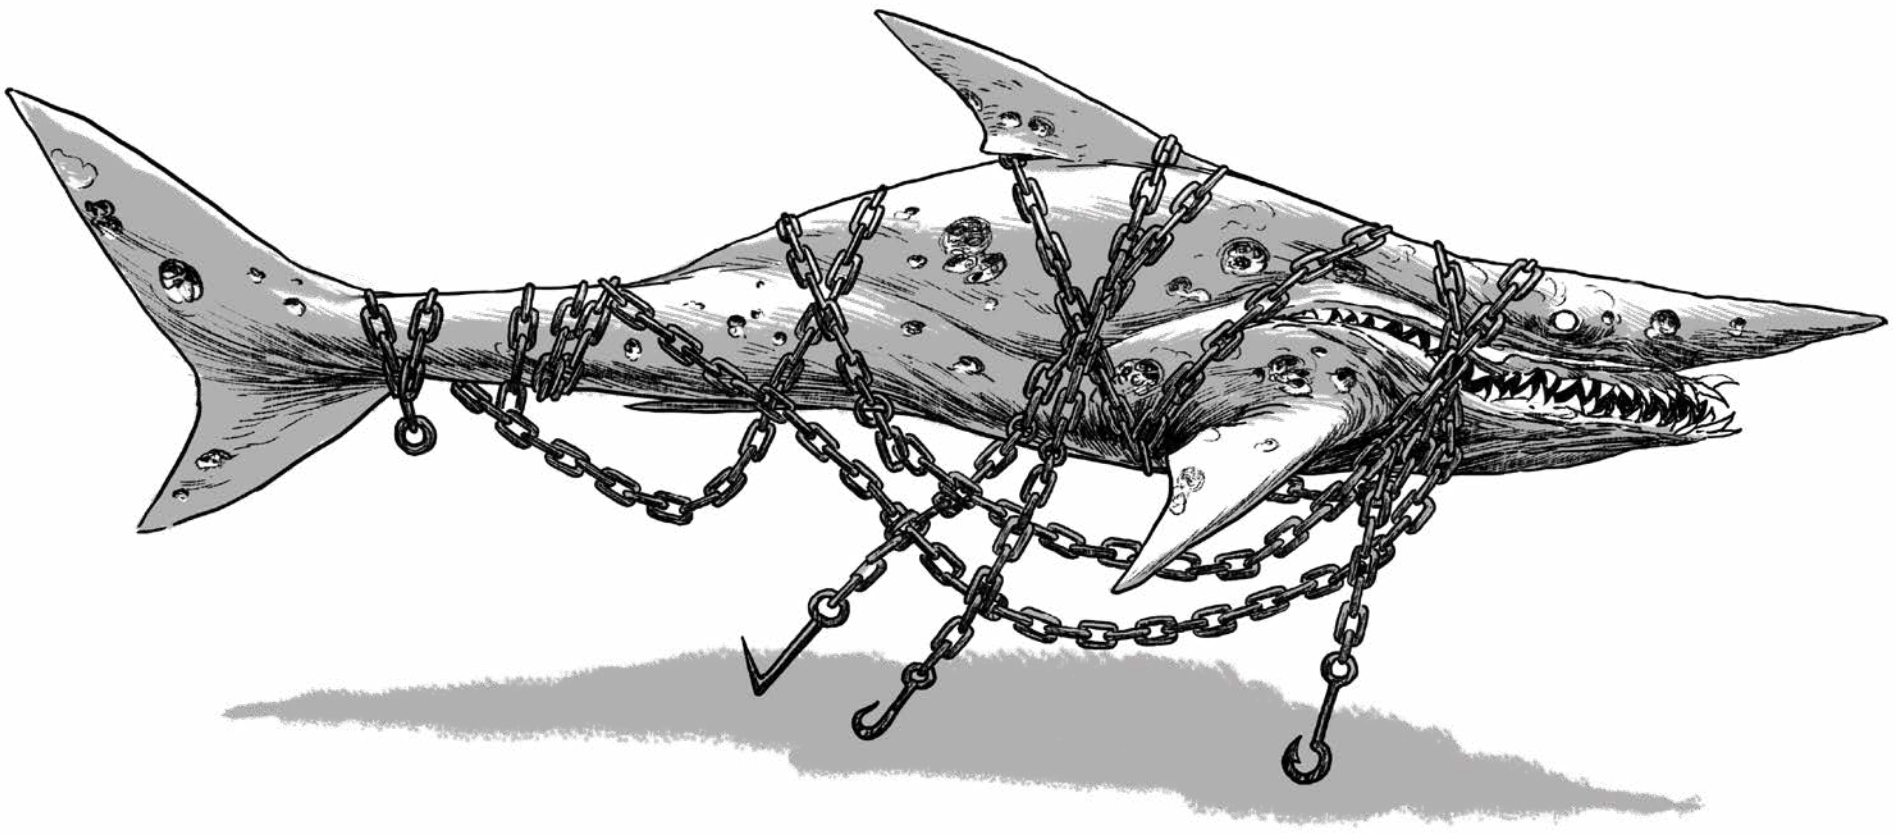

Type	Range	Keywords
1-Handed	Melee	+2 INJURY MODIFIER, RISKY

Shark Tooth Talisman | 10

Sharks are the wolves of the sea, and raiders sacrifice bloody flesh, living or dead, to appease them. Shoals of sharks trail behind every raider vessel, always hungry but assured they will soon be fed again. The fiercest raiders style talismans made from sharks' teeth. Wearing them, they fear no peril at sea or on land and in battle they become gripped by the frenzied spirit of their totem.

Type	Range	Keywords
Equipment	–	CONSUMABLE, NEGATE FEAR

❉ Blood Frenzy: Once during a game, a model with a Shark Tooth Talisman can invoke a Blood Frenzy. If they do so and any model (friend or foe) within 1" of the model with the Shark Tooth Talisman has 1 or more BLOOD MARKERS, add +1 DICE to the Success Rolls for Melee Attacks made by the model with the Shark Tooth Talisman for the rest of their Activation.

Tartarus Claws | 15 ⓜ | Abyssal Commando only

Made from the severed hands of Malebranche demons, Tartarus claws are granted by archdevils only to those whose hearts are blackened with the sin of Wrath.

Type	Range	Keywords
2-Handed	Melee	CRITICAL, CLEAVE 2, CUMBERSOME

- Harrowing Assault: If the target is taken Down or Out of Action by a Melee Attack made with Tartarus Claws, you can immediately move the model up to 3". You can use this move to move within 1" of another enemy model, and if you do so, this model can take another Fight ACTION. However, it cannot make the 3" move again if the second attack takes the target Down or Out of Action.

Wrecker's Torch | 15 ⓜ | ELITE only, Shield Combo

Fuelled by fires drawn from the River Phlegethon, the wrecker's torch burns endlessly with a hellish glow. It serves as a beacon for Heretic Raiders and as a searing weapon against man or vessel.

Type	Range	Keywords
2-Handed	Melee	ARMOUR PIERCING, BLOCK, CUMBERSOME, FIRE

1 Heretic Captain — Cost: 80

A Heretic Naval Raiders Warband must include 1 Heretic Captain.

The Heretic Captain is the absolute master of their ship and every soul aboard it. They are high priests and prophets to their crew, delivering sermons and making sacrifices upon the blood-slick deck. A Heretic Captain has pledged themselves wholly to one of the Seven Serpent Heads, bartering their immortal soul in exchange for absolute power over their small mortal kingdom bordered only by wood or iron. They are strange, driven men, given to greed, madness and obsession, caught in an eternal geas to seek and plunder for their infernal masters to repay debts that can never be fulfilled.

6"/Infantry	+2 DICE	+2 DICE	0	32mm

Battlekit — A Heretic Captain can have any Battlekit from the Heretic Naval Raiders Armoury Tables.

Abilities — ❄ Puppet Master ACTION: A Heretic Captain can take a Puppet Master ACTION. If they do so, take a Risky Success Roll for the model. If the roll is a Failure, the Heretic Captain's Activation ends immediately. If the roll is a Success or Critical Success, pick 1 model (friend or foe) that is within 12" of the Heretic Captain and in their Line of Sight, apart from the Heretic Captain themselves. You can move the model D6". The move must be in a straight line, but can be in any direction, and can be used to make the model move within 1" of an enemy, make a retreat move, Climb, Jump, or Jump Down. The model cannot make a Diving Charge and does not count as charging if it finishes the move within 1" of an enemy model.

0 - 1 Abyssal Commando Cost: 90

The Abyssal Commando is a Death Commando who chooses to stalk the depths alone, often invading harbours and estuaries to doom ships hiding from the raiders upon the high seas. Outside the water, Abyssal Commandos are surrounded by a freezing mist born of the eternal cold that they carry with them from the lightless depths. They arise to work alongside Raider crews in response to a distant call only they can hear.

Battlekit

An Abyssal Commando can have Battlekit from the Heretic Naval Raiders Armoury Tables. The only Ranged Weapons they can have are Silenced Pistols and Tormentor Chains, and the only Grenades they can have are Gas Grenades. No restrictions apply to any other Types of Battlekit. An Abyssal Commando with Reinforced Armour can upgrade it to Abyssal Armour for 5 .

Abilities

❄ Abyssal Armour: An Abyssal Commando in Abyssal Armour counts any terrain that is partially, or fully, made of water (such as pools, streams, and marshes) as Open terrain. In addition, when touching such terrain they may use a Fade ACTION and count as in Cover if the terrain's area is larger than a 32mm base.

Abilities

- Fade ACTION: An Abyssal Commando can take a Fade ACTION if they are in contact with terrain that is composed of water or a terrain piece at least ½" high. If they do so, take a Risky Success Roll for the model and add +1 DICE to the roll. If the roll is a Failure, the Abyssal Commando's Activation ends immediately. If the roll is a Success or Critical Success, enemy models cannot choose the Abyssal Commando as the target for a Ranged Attack or Charge until the Abyssal Commando moves, charges, retreats, makes a Ranged Attack, or an enemy model moves within 1.5" of them. The Abyssal Commando can be hit if they are within the blast radius of a Weapon with the BLAST Keyword.
- Mist-Shrouded: Add -1 DICE to Ranged Attacks that target an Abyssal Commando.

FRONT

0-1 Drowned Chorister — Cost: 65

It is said that those who experience near-death through drowning speak of hearing something in the deeps, a song or call or roar they cannot explain. Some can never shake the memory – it haunts their dreams and their waking world until they receive revelation and consummation. Doomed to search for it forever after, some take up the Leviathan bell, a sealed casque of abyssal waters. Within the bell they are drowned and reborn, recalling the sonorous calls of the darkest depths, a sound fit to cloud the mind and chill the marrow of any mortal souls who hear it. Drowned Choristers float eternally in unseen waters, their binding-chains stirred by ghostly currents.

Heretic Raiders

Cost: 30

Heretic Raiders make up the majority of the warband, sworn to serve beneath the Heretic Captain until Heaven cracks and the seas drain away. They are quick and well-armed, equipped with the pick of the plunder from a hundred raids. Heretic Raider Legionnaires are veterans of the crew, often trusted gunners and topside men, who vie to be the first to step ashore or invade a foreign deck.

You cannot upgrade a Heretic Raider if that would result in there being more Heretic Raider Legionnaires in your Warband than there are Heretic Raiders. Wretched

Cost: 25

Heretic Raiders have depopulated entire coastlines with their incessant attacks across the generations. Huge numbers of souls continue to be seized as plunder, to be sold to flesh-markets and caravans of Sin, though the strongest may be kept by the raiders themselves for sport and toil. Such Wretched are branded with cursed, flesh-eating tattoos as a safeguard against escape and heavily drugged to degrade and dull their will, while still leaving their aggression intact.

Movement	Ranged	Melee	Armour	Base

Battlekit

Wretched can have any Battlekit from the Heretic Naval Raiders Armoury Tables that costs up to 10 . A Wretched must have at least 1 Weapon – they cannot be sent into battle completely unarmed.

Abilities

- Chattel: In a campaign, Wretched can be sold in the Quartermaster Step for 25 plus half the cost in of any Battlekit they have.
- Dark Blessing: When a Wretched is taken Out of Action, place 1 BLESSING MARKER next to the nearest friendly model with the ELITE and HERETIC Keywords. If 2 or more eligible models are equally close to the Wretched, you can choose which receives the BLESSING MARKER.
- Law of Hell: If an attack made by a Wretched takes an enemy model with the ELITE Keyword out of Action, the Wretched model gains its freedom and is immediately removed from the game. It no longer counts as being part of the Warband for the purposes of Morale Checks and is removed from the Warband Roster.

0-1 Sea Hag

Cost: 100

Just as Artillery Witches stalk the battlefields on land, Sea Hags hunt upon the waves. They summon forth an endless tide of infernal sea mines to plague shipping and coastlines, paralysing movement through even the mere rumour of their presence. It is unlikely that the Heretics could have won so many naval victories without the baleful influence of the Sea Hags, for their dreadful weapons have been the doom of many a proud fighting ship.

Battlekit A Sea Hag always has Infernal Bombs (▸ see below), and can have any Battlekit from the Heretic Naval Raiders Armoury Tables except for Ranged Weapons or Grenades. A Sea Hag may upgrade its Infernal Bombs to Infernal Mines for 10 .

Abilities

- Abiotic Life: Add -1 INJURY DICE for a Sea Hag that has been hit by an attack with the GAS Keyword.
- Levitate: You do not have to take a Risky Success Roll for a Sea Hag when they Climb or Jump, nor make an Injury Roll if they Fall.

Infernal Bomb

Type	Range	Keywords

- Duck: Add -1 INJURY DICE to the roll for a model that is hit by an Infernal Bomb if it is in contact with a terrain piece that is at least ½” tall and that lies in between it and the target point.
- Infernal Mine: If the Infernal Mine upgrade has been taken, after rolling for scatter, an Infernal Bomb can be left in place to be detonated later by the close proximity of an enemy model or at the option of the player controlling the Sea Hag. Leave an appropriate marker on the spot where the bomb landed. If an enemy model finishes a move within 3” of an Infernal Mine marker, you can interrupt its Activation and detonate the mine. If an unexploded Infernal Mine is on the battlefield at the beginning of the Sea Hag’s activation it can be detonated with a Detonate ACTION. When the Infernal Mine is detonated, resolve it as an Infernal Bomb (▸ see above). A Sea Hag may have only 1 Infernal Mine marker in play at any one time.
- Infernal Strike: If a model was the target for an Infernal Bomb and is hit by it, or if an Infernal Bomb scatters and the target point lands on a model’s base, apply the effect of the DEADLY Keyword to the Injury Roll for the model. Injury Rolls for other models caught in the Infernal Bomb’s BLAST are made normally.
- Mighty Explosion: If a model that has been hit by an Infernal Bomb is not taken Out of Action by the Injury Roll, it is blown away D3” in a straight line by the explosion, even if the model has been taken Down by the Injury Roll. Roll separately for each model to see how far it is blown away by an Infernal Bomb. If the model was the target of the attack, it is blown directly away from the Sea Hag. If the model was caught in the Blast of the weapon, it is blown directly away from the target point. The model stops if it is blown into another model, Impassable terrain, or terrain it cannot cross without having to Climb.

Warband Variants

THE DROWNED CHOIR

The cries of Drowned Choristers resound through the depths and haunt the dreams of sleepers too near the shore. Drawn together by their haunting dirges, some Drowned Choristers assemble into choirs, to the peril of all. Many who hear are driven to madness by the Drowned Choir's calls, and those who hurl themselves into the deeps are bound to serve them forever more. When such warbands form they are fey and wayward, moving back and forth with the currents of tide and storm to no plan or reasoning of mortal mind. Over time there is a danger that a Drowned Choir can merge fully into a conjoined entity known as a Leviathal Chorus, but such occurrences are mercifully rare.

THE DROWNED CHOIR SPECIAL RULES

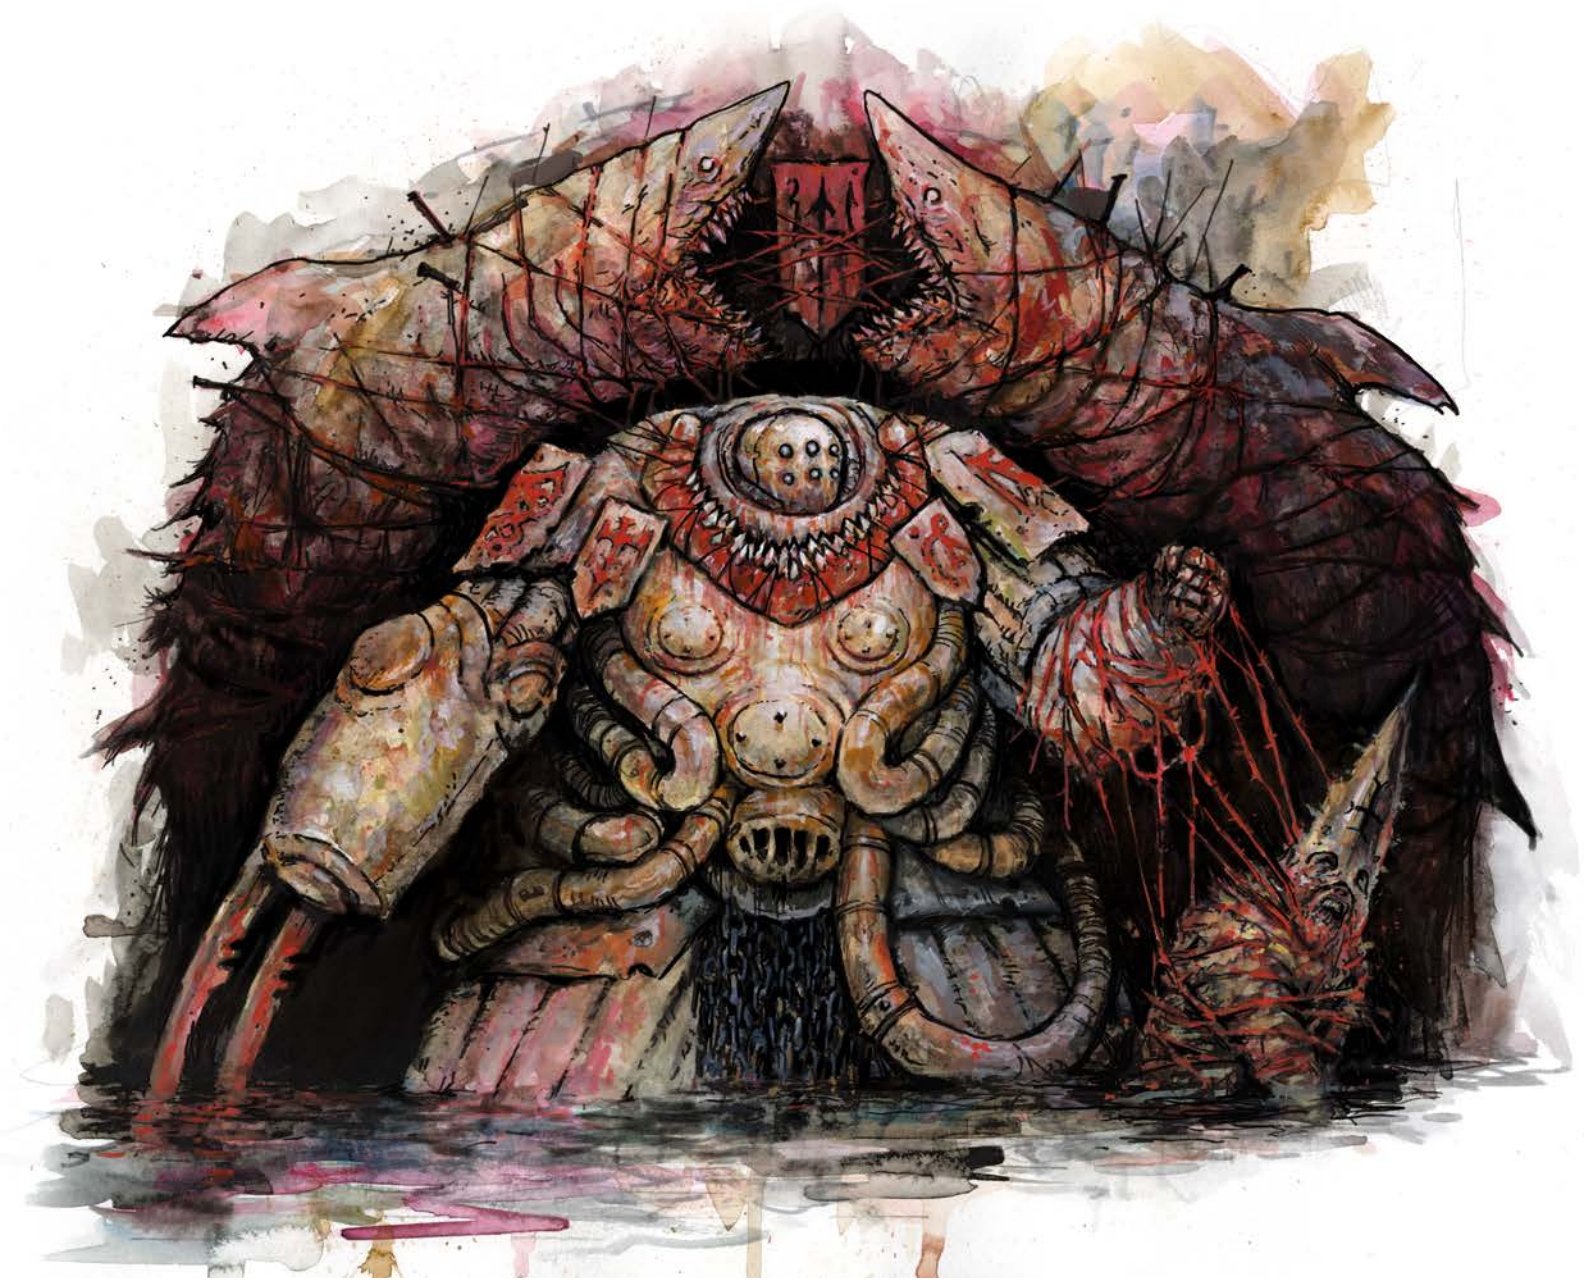

The following special rules apply to a Drowned Choir Warband:

- A Song Within the Deep: Drowned Choir Warbands must include 1-3 Drowned Choristers. In addition, 1 Drowned Chorister must take the Leviathal Chorus upgrade at a cost of 20 . The Drowned Chorister with the Leviathal Chorus upgrade increases its base size to 40mm, has the LEADER and TOUGH Keywords, and replaces their Unholy Hymns ability with the Dread Harmony ability.
  - Dread Harmony: All Success Rolls made by enemy models within 8" of a Leviathal Chorus become Risky Success Rolls (there is no additional effect if they are Risky Success Rolls already).
- A Wretched Chorus: Wretched models in a Drowned Choir cost 30 and have a Melee Characteristic of +0 DICE. Wretched models within 8" of any number of Drowned Chorister or Leviathal Chorus models have a Melee Characteristic of +1 DICE instead of +0 DICE.
- Mounting Madness: Increase the range of a Drowned Chorister's Unholy Hymns Ability by +4" if it is within 8" of another friendly Drowned Chorister or Leviathal Chorus.
- To No Purpose Save Their Own: Drowned Choir Warbands cannot include any of the following models: Heretic Captain, Abyssal Commando, Sea Hag, Anointed Heretic Raiders.

Warband Variants

THE LEVIATHAN SHOAL

The most bloodthirsty Raider Captains worship Leviathan, the great beast of oceans and once the Hell Prince of Envy, now cast down and cruelly bound. The Leviathan Shoal mercilessly slaughters the weakest of their number so that only the strongest survive. They adopt the shark as their totem, and sacrifice flesh and blood in Leviathan's name, holding that as heralds and offspring of the great beast they share its immortal strength and bottomless hunger. Such warbands are infamous for their brutality and terror, slaughtering all they capture. Ever eager to come to blows in physical combat, guns exhibit little allure for the Leviathan Shoal. They cannibalise the flesh of the dead, friend and foe alike, growing fat on their vile feasting, and tossing the remnants to the ever-present sharks that roil in their crimson wake.

THE LEVIATHAN SHOAL SPECIAL RULES

The following special rules apply to a Leviathan Shoal Warband:

- Only the Strong Survive: Leviathan Shoal Warbands can include 0-4 Anointed Heretic Raiders, and up to 1 can be recruited with the ELITE Keyword at no extra cost. In addition, Heretic Captains in this Warband have the STRONG Keyword, but it cannot include any Drowned Choristers, Wretched, or Sea Hags.
- Charge and Rend: The models in a Leviathan Shoal Warband cannot have more Ranged Weapons than Melee Weapons. If they ever do, you must remove Ranged Weapons from the Warband Roster until there are no more Ranged Weapons than Melee Weapons. In addition, models in this Warband cannot have Ranged Weapons with the HEAVY Keyword, Sacrificial Blades in this Warband are Limit: 4, and may be purchased for Anointed Heretic Raider models.
- Feeding Frenzy: Add +1 DICE to Success Rolls for Melee Attacks made by models from a Leviathan Shoal Warband for each model (friend or foe) with 1 or more BLOOD MARKERS within 1" of the model making the Melee Attack, to a maximum of +3 DICE.
- Chosen Sons: The first time in a game that an Anointed Heretic Raider in a Leviathan Shoal Warband takes an enemy model Out of Action with a Melee Attack, that Anointed Heretic Raider gains the TOUGH Keyword for the rest of the game.

SAMPLE LISTS

Sample lists are meant to get you into the fight quickly, providing fun and thematic lists tailored to the Warband's rules. They also correspond to the two ways you can assemble each model in this kit. However, they are only a suggestion. You can (and should) build your models and warband however you see fit!

The Drowning of Innocence

The Drowning of Innocence, named such after Synod reconnaissance missionaries translated the archaic cuneiform etched into the pulsing hulls of their raiding vessels, first earned their infamy due to the carnage they wrought during a bitter campaign across the Aegean Sea. Their attacks were unpredictable and shocking; from simultaneous full-frontal assaults by bullet and blade on multiple beachhead strongholds, to strategic assassinations of the loved ones of dock workers so that entire port infrastructures would soon be abandoned, to even the Goetic cursing of marine life, so that the fish that constituted shoreside rations would leave the hungry Faithful boiling and mutating. Each of these vile assaults were coordinated by the monstrous Heretic Captain Hanun the Bloodtide, a powerful user of Goetic magic that, according to all eye witness accounts, constantly weeps rivulets of blood from every crevice of their intricate armour. None have heard the Captain speak nor have they seen their face, with each missive to their crew being unwillingly verbalised by those they wish to command. Despite their remarkable successes, the Drowning of Innocence have long maintained a humble raiding force compared to many of their peers. However, when War Priest Charon made his blood-summons to find and free Leviathan, he sent a personal missive to the Bloodtide to solicit their allegiance on the Carcass Front, knowing that the Drowning of Innocence may be the perfect match of small enough to avoid attention, yet skilled enough to infiltrate, hunt or simply massacre any who cross their path.

Beachhead Assault Doctrine

One of the defining characteristics of the Drowning of Innocence is their unpredictability. One style of their engagement sees them using shock and awe tactics, engaging from range with a veritable storm of automatic weapons that account for their smaller number.

This Sample List is all about one thing – bullets, bullets, and more bullets. Boasting no less than four automatic weapons, the Beachhead Assault Doctrine works best when making use of cover to Dash up the board, whilst laying down a truly oppressive amount of Ranged Attacks. Heretic Captain Hanun and Anointed Heretic Raider Piaget form a fast and lethal armoured core, unleashing two Submachine Gun attacks and three Machine Gun attacks per Activation respectively. These two brutes are no slouch in Melee either, likely able to go toe-to-toe with all but the most dedicated enemy combatants. For those, send in Drowned Chorister Tannin to debuff nearby enemies before hacking them to death with his Sacrificial Blade and Sword. Elsewhere, the two Heretic Raider Legionnaires Anat and Keret both use their Legionnaire Ability to give them +1 DICE to their Ranged Characteristic, making it even more likely to deal out death in the mid-range with their Submachine Guns. Use Heretic Raiders Nahash and Yaqum to occupy any homefield Objectives and get some Blood Markers on enemies early on.

To build the models for this warband, use option A in the assembly guide.

Assassination Force Doctrine

Where the Beachhead Assault Doctrine presents an impenetrable firestorm of infernal ammunition, the Assassination Force Doctrine shows the Drowning of Innocence at their most clandestine – using Goetic magics and shadow-wrought camouflage to sneak up on their foes prior to rending them into bloody chunks with wickedly sharp blades.

The Assassination Force Sample List makes maximum use of the Unseen Advance Ability, which gives Anointed Heretic Raider Piaget and the Heretic Raider Legionnaires Anat and Keret the INFILTRATOR Keyword, allowing them to start many scenarios close to enemy territories. Piaget adds a Trench Shield to her already impressively resilient Reinforced Armour, helping her to survive long enough to take out important enemy support or artillery pieces with her Automatic Shotgun and Great Sword. As for the other infiltrators, both using their Legionnaire Ability to give them +1 DICE to their Melee Characteristics, Keret can go straight for enemy armour with his Boarding Axe and Gas Grenades, whilst Anat acts as a flexible mid-range or melee threat with her Submachine Gun and Sword and Trench Club combo. Whilst the enemy deals with the threats at their doorstep, the core of the force can take advantageous positions to either occupy Objectives or safely pick off those not killed by the infiltrators. Heretic Captain Hanun and Drowned Chorister Tannin can reliably push up the field in a bruising melee role with plenty of defence. Meanwhile, the Heretic Raiders are put in an offensive ranged role, with Nahash wielding a Charge-friendly Semi-Automatic Rifle and Yaqum bringing portable artillery to bear, raining devastation from afar with a Grenade Launcher.

To build the models for this warband, use option B in the assembly guide.
